

State Senate Approves $54 Million Appropriation For Welfare

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Senate passed a $54 million appropriation Monday, enabling the Welfare Department to continue writing welfare checks for the remaining six weeks of the fiscal year.

Gov. Milton Shapp signed the measure immediately. Some 30,000 checks prepared in anticipation of passage, were then mailed.

The vote was 40-7. Passage, however, came only after Sen. William Duffield, D-Fayette, switched his vote after being assured that a bill placing the Welfare Department under legislative control would be considered.

Sen. Thomas Nolan, D-Allegheny, said he would introduce the measure Tuesday as an amendment to another bill.

Nolan said the measure will be the same as an amendment added to a House bill last week. That amendment was used as a condition for obtaining votes in the House to pass the deficiency welfare appropriation.

The decisive vote came after a Republican parliamentary move to consider a bill that would create a state Board of Auctioneer Examiners. Republicans hoped to add the welfare control amendment to this bill and then vote on the appropriation. The maneuver took Democrats by surprise as Republicans had indicated earlier they hoped to bring out of committee the House-passed control bill.

Duffield and by Sen. Austin Murphy, D-Washington joined with Republicans for the 24-22 vote. Sen. Clarence Bell was the only Republican senator to vote against the move.

Democratic leaders then buttholed Duffield, who 10 minutes later changed his vote to bring it to 23-23 and rejection.

With final passage of the appropriation assured and no hope of voting for a control bill Monday, Republicans switched their votes to pass the appropriation easily.

The Welfare Department claimed it ran out of money last Friday and needed additional funds by Monday in order to mail checks to 30,000 recipients in 12 counties.

The $54 million gap between programmed expenditures and the welfare budget was set up by the legislature itself, which cut $87 million from the department's budget request last year.

The welfare control bill would require the department to make all its rules and regulations available to the legislature by the end of the year.

The lawmakers would then have 60 days to revise or eliminate any regulations with which they disagree. Future rules would be subject to the same legislative overview.

Gov. Shapp said the control bill is unconstitutional because it infringes on the rights of the state's executive branch.

A Welfare Department spokesman said although the checks were mailed in the early evening, he was unsure whether all would reach their destination by Tuesday. Normally, checks are sent out by 4 p.m. on the day before they are due.

The 12 counties the checks are being mailed to are Allegheny, Cambria, Cameron, Cumberland, Fayette, Franklin, Lackawanna, Mercer, Montour, Philadelphia, Sullivan and Washington.

Q.—A month after buying a pickup truck from a local dealer we met the original owner. He insisted that the vehicle had approximately 8,000 more miles on it when traded than when we bought it. We have determined that no one else owned the vehicle in between.

What can be done about this? One hears so much about car dealers tampering with speedometers but one never hears of anything being done about it.—D.E.B.

A.—We are advised that state police in Erie have made arrests for this offense under the provisions of the Consumer Protection Act. However, the individual, such as yourself must first file a complaint with proof that such tampering has been done.

New York State protects the consumer under the law. The owner of a vehicle who trades it at a dealer and the dealer himself, is required to note the mileage and sign a document to that effect. This information is filed in Albany and the same mileage must be recorded with any subsequent transaction to avoid prosecution.

Efforts are under way in Pennsylvania to include a provision in the motor vehicle code which could protect those who purchase vehicles in the Commonwealth.

Moscow Television Describes First Meeting As Frank And Businesslike

MOSCOW (AP) — Behind the Kremlin's forbidding walls, Richard M. Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev began Monday their summit sessions designed to ease the arms drain on both their countries—and possibly bring peace in Indochina a step nearer.

The President and the chief of the Soviet Communist party started their talks a few hours after President and Mrs. Nixon arrived in Moscow on a balmy afternoon.

Moscow television described the first meeting as frank and businesslike. The White House said the talk lasted 1 1/2 hours and "marked the beginning of discussions of international problems and also covered important matters of principle which relate to the future development of relations between the two countries."

It said the initial talk indicated that both men attached great importance to the summit and felt that the achievement of agreements would help both countries contribute to the relaxation of international tensions and strengthen world security.

The President arrived to a cool though correct reception from Soviet officials at the airport outside Moscow. Then about 100,000 Muscovites lined a broad boulevard for a glimpse of the first U.S. president to come to the Soviet capital.

The crowd, curious but not exuberant, far outshone the handful of onlookers who watched Nixon's motorcade travel the streets of Peking when he arrived there three months ago for the first of his major sessions of summitry.

At a Kremlin banquet later

Nixon expressed veiled criticism of the Soviet Union's role as an arms supplier to North Vietnam but called for cooperation to "pave the way to peace for all the world."

Responding to the President's toast, Nikolai V. Podgorny said the Soviet government attaches great importance to this week's meetings. He called it "possible and desirable to establish not merely good but friendly relations."

Podgorny has the title of president, but his duties are more ceremonial than executive—Brezhnev is the driving force even though he occupies no government position.

The airport reception was televised to Muscovites. The Kremlin banquet, including the Nixon and Podgorny remarks, was not.

Ronald Ziegler, the White House press secretary, declined to say whether the first summit session discussed Vietnam. The meeting was arranged very quickly, Ziegler said, and came at Brezhnev's suggestion.

Henry A. Kissinger, the Nixon adviser who made advance preparations for the summit, sat in on the session. Nixon and Brezhnev faced each other across a long conference table.

The White House saw "no significance" in the fact that Brezhnev neither appeared at the airport nor delivered a banquet toast.

The airport welcome was colorful, with music and marchers, but bore a restrained if not coolish note. The President was greeted by Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

The plan was for the Nixon-Brezhnev meetings to resume Tuesday morning. Heading the agenda are Vietnam and a pact to limit strategic arms and clamp controls on the two superpowers' nuclear arsenals. Nixon said in his toast at the banquet that he came to Moscow in peace.

"The American people want peace," he said. "I know the people of the Soviet Union want peace. My fervent hope is that we, as representatives of our two peoples, can work together to insure that all the people of the earth can enjoy the blessings of peace."

In words which appeared aimed at the Soviet goal of equal footing with the United States, Ziegler said, and came

Bloodshed In Ireland Continues; Toll Now 334

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two hundred Roman Catholic women, angered by the Irish Republican Army's execution of a teen-age soldier, marched on the IRA's Bogside headquarters Monday and threatened to throw open the city's barricaded Catholic areas to British troops.

"This is murder, and we are sick of it," a leader of the demonstrators declared. In Dublin, Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch took his strongest stand to date against the IRA, accusing the outlawed guerrilla army of trying to provoke civil war in Northern Ireland. He vowed that his government would do all in its power to crush the IRA.

It was the closest he had come publicly to agreeing with British and Ulster claims that the slaying brought the death toll to 334 during the three years of communal warfare in Northern Ireland.

In Belfast, a false guerrilla telephone tip-off lured factory workers into a blast that blew up a car. Sixty persons were hurt in the explosion that erupted in the mainly Protestant area.

The women marchers were protesting the killing of British army ranger William Best, 19, who was found shot dead in Londonderry Sunday. They claimed the youth had been tortured for three hours before being shot.

In a stormy confrontation with the IRA chieftains, a leader of the women marchers warned:

Northern Ireland's violence is fed from his republic, south of the disputed border.

But the bloodshed continued as guerrilla ambushers killed one man and wounded four others in a hail of rifle and machinegun fire in the country town of Drumenny Monday night. The victims had been driving up to a local priest's house when the gunmen opened fire on them.

The slaying brought the death toll to 334 during the three years of communal warfare in Northern Ireland.

like this we will tell the British authorities that the British army can come in and clear the IRA out.

"We have been frightened in the past, but not any more... We want to get rid of the IRA."

Both the Bogside and the neighboring Creggan Estate where Best's parents live are IRA strongholds where the British army and Northern Ireland police do not venture.

Best was on leave from his army unit in Germany. The IRA said the soldier was sentenced to death by a court-martial and executed as a spy.

Security forces blamed the Belfast car blast from a 150-pound gelignite time bomb on the IRA, saying:

"This seems to have been a deliberate IRA attempt to cause the maximum casualties in a Protestant area."

Another car bomb planted in the country town of Maghera caused four casualties—including a British soldier—and wrecked 15 shops.

The blasts came as William Whitelaw, Northern Ireland British boss, and community leaders in Belfast worked to

Fifth Annual Three Flags Ceremony Set For May 29

The fifth annual raising of the three historical flags in Warren's Crescent Park will be held Monday, May 29 starting at 3:30 p.m. according to T.K. Stratton, project chairman.

The main speaker will be Ralph H. Freeman, forest supervisor, Allegheny National Forest. The public is cordially invited to attend the ceremonies which are climaxed by the flying of the Betsy Ross, the Fleu-di-Lis and the Union Jack.

The huge flags remain flying day and night until November and are lighted at night. They are a constant reminder of the romantic early history of this region.

The annual ceremony is sponsored by the Northwest Pennsylvania Heritage Foundation and the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau. The beauty of the setting and the inspiring view of the large flags have attracted good crowds each year to witness the impressive program.

The Beaty Junior High School Dungaree Band,

Ralph H. Freeman

directed by Richard West, will give a band concert starting at 3:30 and also participate during the ceremonies beginning at 4 p.m. The Marine Color Guard will raise the flags. Mr. Freeman, the principal speaker, moved to Warren as head of the Allegheny National Forest in March, 1968. He has been employed by the U.S. Forest Service since 1955 serving in various positions in Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, Texas, and North Carolina.

He has been active in many community affairs locally and is serving on the board of directors of the Heritage Foundation as well as the advisory committee of the Vacation Bureau.

Freeman was born in Lake Cormorant, Mississippi. He holds a B.S. degree in Forestry from University of Arkansas and has done graduate work at the University of Montana.

The speaker served as a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps during World War II, was recalled to active duty in 1950 and released with the rank of Captain in 1954. He retired from the Marine Corps Reserves with the rank of Major in 1963.

Retired School Supt., John G. Rossman, Dies

John Guise Rossman, 84 of 30 Farquhar ave., Wilmington, Ohio, Warren County superintendent of schools for 16 years until his retirement in 1950, died at 8:45 a.m. Monday, May 22, 1972, at Clinton Memorial Hospital, Wilmington. He had been seriously ill for the past four weeks and had been in failing health for two years. He was born August 23, 1887 at Spring Mills, a son of Howard and Clara Guise Rossman.

He was a member of the Warren County Shrine Club, the First Methodist Church of Warren and was a past president of Warren Rotary. He was past president of the Gary, Ind. Lions Club. He was a member of the Rotary Club at Ocala, Fla. where he resided until April, 1971.

He graduated from Franklin and Marshall College and earned his masters degree at Columbia University. He was

Death In Aerosol Cans

By Bob Clever

Young people are finding, not the temporary escape they seek from the problems of maturation, but death instead from the misuse of aerosol products.

The deliberate misuse of these products is part of what appears to be a "sniffing syndrome" among adolescents. Concentrated vapors of a wide variety of organic solvents are being used by juveniles for intoxication. These vapors occur in glues, paint thinners, nail polish removers, cleaning and lighter fluids.

A total of 50 deaths have been reported from some 20 states during a two-year period; so the problem is national, not regional. The largest cluster of cases is in the age group 15 to 18; however, deaths have occurred from the age of 11 through 22. More than a dozen types of aerosol products have been involved.

The Inter-Industry Committee on Aerosol Use has established the Aerosol Education Bureau to administer a broad safety education program. The aim of the bureau is to warn those who may be embarking on a dangerous course.

Some people think that deliberate inhalation of concentrated amounts of aerosol vapors have no dangerous effects. Some young people have experimented and consider it safe, but death can result unexpectedly despite prior experience. There are no real safeguards.

Some aerosol products (for the mouth and throat) are meant to be inhaled. These are metered for the recommended dosage controlling the amount sprayed per usage. These products, the industry says, are safe when used as directed.

There are many products meant to be sprayed into the atmosphere of a room, such as deodorizers, decongestants, and hair sprays. These also, according to the industry, are safe when used as directed.

An over-abundance of water — necessary to life itself — can result in death from drowning.

Salt — a common item in every home — if misused can cause serious personal harm and even death.

Industry and the laws have stressed the importance of using certain products properly and these products are so labeled.

More than 300 types of aerosol products are available today, including foods, cosmetics, medicines, paints and many other household items. Their development came after World War II and the story is a rather remarkable one of imagination and progress.

Why are young people involved in the deliberate misuse of aerosol products, specifically, and drugs, generally?

Adolescence is a difficult period in human life; it is a transition from childhood to maturity and the stresses peculiar to it stem from problems of transition.

The teenager, in many ways, wants to be treated as an adult; and at the same time he wants to retain the relationships of childhood. This produces tension, strain, confusion.

The adolescent is impelled by his maturation, the emergence of his sexuality, the widening of his horizons, the incitations of his fellow teenagers, the imminence of the time when he stands on his own feet, and the urging of adults around him to act as a grownup.

The stresses of transition are not equally grave or intense for all adolescents; the environment may make the transition more or less difficult. It may provide support or add unnecessary frustration.

A statement made by an innocent "sniffer" points to the need for education and is the basis for the aerosol industry's efforts through schools, clubs, organizations, and media which reach teenagers.

"If I had known that it would blow up everything... Those kids just passed it around like it was nothing. Everybody was taking it, just sniffing it, didn't know anything about it. If I had known about it, I never would have tried the junk. I tried it because I didn't know anything about it."

No one in my neighborhood knows anything about it. That's what they need... education... so that the kids know what the stuff can do.

It can blow everything up in your face."

Armstrong Teachers Go On Strike Again

KITTANNING, Pa. (AP) — Teachers in the sprawling Armstrong School District went on strike Monday, closing schools there for the fourth time in a year.

The walkout by all but 18 of 550 teachers in the district shut classroom doors to 12,000 pupils, according to a school spokesman.

It came just days after Commonwealth Court Judge Genevieve Blatt overturned an injunction issued in the long-standing contract impasse in September by Armstrong County Judge J. Frank Graff.

Negotiations aimed at heading off the walk stoppage by members of the Pennsylvania Education Association broke off over the weekend. Supt. Dr. Richard Stottlemeyer said no new talks have been scheduled.

Fraudulent Contractors Face Action

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Atty. Gen. J. Shane Creamer Monday announced court action he says will keep the fraudulent home contractor out of Pennsylvania.

A consent petition for permanent injunctions was reported signed with two Luzerne County contractors—John Hoffman, doing business as Hoffman Home Improvement Co., Drums, and Thomas Doyle, an independent Hazleton contractor.

In the Justice Department agreement, neither Doyle nor Hoffman acknowledged any wrongdoing, while at the same time pledging under the threat of court action not to violate the provisions of the agreement, according to Creamer.

The two were named earlier in department complaints which alleged the quality of work performed in some instances "was unskilled, incompetent and unworkmanlike in nature, and the materials used were of a grade inferior to that reported at the time of the contract."

Some pupils showed up for classes Monday but were sent home as the teachers began picketing in front of the administration building, Stottlemeyer said.

The dispute between the teachers and the school board goes back to December 1970, and Stottlemeyer says it still centers on wages.

"We offer them a two-year contract with a $901,000 total increase," he said. The offer was rejected.

The teachers walked out again on Aug. 30, 1971, and remained off the job until Sept. 13 when Graff enjoined the walk-out and ordered binding arbitration in the disputes.

The arbitration never came to pass, however, and the teachers struck again Dec. 6, staying out until Dec. 13, at which time Graff again ordered binding arbitration.

The injunction and arbitration order were overturned by Judge Blatt last week, paving the way for renewed teacher action.

Under the state law, a school district must provide 180 instructional days for students, and because of the previous strikes, classes were scheduled through June 23.

Wallace's Legs Show Signs Of Muscular Activity

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace has experienced some encouraging involuntary motion and some feeling in his paralyzed legs, doctors reported Monday.

This was the first definite sign of muscular activity in Wallace's legs since he was shot four times at a political rally last Monday in nearby Laurel, Md.

Wallace's condition was described as stable and he is drinking a small glass of milk every two hours, the only oral nourishment he is taking now.

In a briefing at Holy Cross Hospital Monday morning doctors said there has been some return of "involuntary muscular activity to the toes of both feet," and they said this motion is more pronounced on the left foot.

Doctors said Wallace showed normal reflex action to stimulation on the sole of his foot.

And they said there is also "encouraging evidence of increasing sensations down to the level of the mid-thigh."

However, the doctors pointed out that the significance of these findings in relation to possible complete recovery is difficult to ascertain at this time although they said it is most encouraging.

A note of caution against attaching great significance to these developments came from the top neurological consultant in the case, Dr. J. Garver Galbraith of the University of Alabama Medical Center at Birmingham.

In a telephone interview, Galbraith agreed that the developments are encouraging but "do not necessarily have any significance" in relation to the governor's chances for recovering.

County To Borrow Fourth Time

The Warren County Commissioners for the fourth time this year voted to borrow money to hold the county over until tax monies are returned.

The amount was for $75,000 from Warren National Bank at 4 1/4 per cent interest and due Nov. 15.

To date the commissioners have borrowed a total of $350,000 from both WNB and Pennsylvania Bank & Trust. Last year, five loans were secured from both local banks in the total amount of $425,000.

Only other business Monday morning was the purchase of roller files for the voter registration office in the amount of $1,201.60. The new files will provide better access to the registration cards which are constantly handled in order to keep them updated between elections.

The cards, which are distributed to each polling place at election time, to provide workers with a record of eligible voters, have been kept in large boxes. The purchase had been included in the budget submitted to the commissioners by Voter Registrar Barbara Walker and comes under capital improvements.

18-Year-Olds May Bet At Race Tracks

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Betting at thoroughbred race tracks has been extended to 18-year-olds under a bill signed into law by Gov. Milton Shapp Monday.

It also allows youths between 10 and 18 years old to go to the races, if accompanied by an adult.

Another measure signed into law by the governor allows counties of the 3rd through 8th classes to buy, lease, build or operate general hospitals.

Keynote Speaker Named For United Fund Meeting

Owen R. Davison, consultant to funds and councils, Community Services of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, will be the keynote speaker at the annual luncheon meeting of the United Fund of Warren County, according to W.R. Walker, UF president.

The meeting will be held at 12 noon, Wednesday, May 31 in Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church. The business meeting will include the election of directors for the UF board.

The meeting is open to all members of the United Fund; a member is any person who has contributed $10 or more in the annual financial campaign.

Mr. Davison has had a long and distinguished career in social work and community planning. He holds a B.A. degree from DePauw University and a M.A. degree from the University of Cincinnati where he was a Truants Fellow in Social Research.

Before joining Community Services of Pennsylvania, Davison was executive director of Health and Welfare Council, Inc., Philadelphia, directing a staff of 100 and a budget of $1,500,000. Previously, he was director of agency operations, United Fund of the Philadelphia area.

The speaker served as chairman, National Committee of Planning Executives of United Way of America, 1969-71 and was a member of the board of directors of the United Way.

He currently serves on the advisory board, Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research, Bryn Mawr College; he has also served on the advisory committee, The Philadelphia Foundation, and the board of hospitals and homes, Eastern Pennsylvania Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Owen R. Davison

Reservations for the UF annual lunch-luncheon meeting may be telephoned to 726-0292.

The week started off on a happy note as PennDOT equipment started to patch potholes on Market st. Some of the roughest between Fourth and Fifth had been neatly filled in.

Sgt. Edward Pasi, commanding officer of the Warren state police substation, reports that open house at the barracks in observance of National Police Week, attracted a number of interested persons.

CORRY — An investigation by state police of the Corry substation in regard to a car that exploded last week in Spring Creek, confirmed that someone had put sugar in the gas tank. The car belonged to Willis A. Stroup of Spring Creek, police said.

20 Alleged Drug Pushers Nabbed In Police Raids

INDIANA — Brockway and Johnsonburg youths were among 20 drug pushers arrested Friday in a series of police raids in the Indiana University of Pennsylvania area.

Among those arrested by state police, assisted by borough police, were David Neil McFadden, 19, RD 2, Brockway; and Edward Max McAlee, 21, Johnsonburg.

All 20 arrested have been charged with trafficking in narcotics and dangerous drugs. The series of raids, result of six weeks undercover work, were made on the basis of information amassed by state police during the investigation.

Undercover officers had made buys of narcotics and dangerous drugs from the accused.

The raids, starting at 6:30 a.m. Friday, netted $2,804.25 in drugs and narcotics and $1,- 049.05 in cash was confiscated by state police.

Included in the confiscated drugs and narcotics were marijuana, amphetamines, LSD, hashish, mescaline, pipes and other paraphernalia associated with drug use.

Raiders found marijuana planted and growing under sun lamps in a bathtub. One pusher sat throughout the search of his living quarters and when asked to stand up and step aside, police found drugs under his shoe.

The arrest included two women.

All suspects were arraigned before District Justice Albert M. Cox for arraignment on charges of violations of the state drug law. Bond was set for $5,000 each.

C.J. Crary Wins Another Photo Honor

C. J. Crary, of 508 Liberty st., Warren, Pa., noted photographer, has been accorded an additional honor. His photograph, "Tank Welder" has been hung in the Adelaide International Exhibition in Adelaide, Australia. This print is one of his most successful and well-known prints and is highly regarded by his fellow photographers.

Crary is one of the founders of the Photographic Society of America which now has thousands of members from all over the world. He is also a member of the Photographic Society of America. He is also a member of the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain, the Camera Club of New York, and has exhibited extensively in the United States and abroad.

Mrs. Crary, the former Gene Alden Walker, has gained fame as an important artist.

Mounted Policemen Drive Demonstrators From Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounted blue-helmeted policemen drove several hundred anti-war demonstrators away from the Pentagon Monday after scores of protesters tried to rush the steps of the huge military complex.

More than 200 of the mostly young, white demonstrators were arrested and carried away in military buses. A few were dragged across an asphalt parking lot by their hair and one girl was seen being carried apparently unconscious.

But generally, General Service Administration guards and National Park Police called in to control the demonstration used restraint.

During six hours of sporadic civil disobedience interlaced with militant speeches against the administration's Vietnam policy, police said more than 200 persons were booked on charges of disorderly conduct.

"Join us, join us," the demonstrators chanted to office

Larceny Charge Filed By Police

A 15-year-old Jamestown, N.Y. youth found out that it didn't pay to steal the flag from Number 8 Green at Cable Hollow Golf Course Friday, May 19 at 6:15 p.m.

The youth, who alighted from a car passing the course via Norberg rd., was apprehended by the course owner, turned over to state police at the Warren substation, charged with larceny and released in custody of his parents.

workers peering out of their windows.

Security was tight. Police lined the parking lot, as well as roads and bridges leading to the area.

Inside the Pentagon, military policemen in full combat gear were held in reserve for a possible major assault on the building which didn't come.

Outside, several members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War burned parts of green Army uniforms, holding them aloft as they flamed.

A minority chanted, "Long live the Weather People," a reference to the organization which claimed responsibility for bombing a Pentagon rest room last week.

The protests had been billed as a move to blockade the Pentagon and prevent its staff from getting to work. But only a handful of protesters showed up by rush hour and there was no apparent disruption of Pentagon operations.

However, a crowd of 500 protesters marched later from across the Potomac River and by noon the crowd at the Pentagon swelled to 1,000 persons.

The arrests came after about 100 persons locked arms four abreast and said they would make a symbolic march through the double rank of helmeted guards blocking the building.

After the rush on the building, the remaining demonstrators were chased away, and some tear gas canisters flew through the air into the retreat.

Neither Monday's march nor a mass rally on Capitol Hill Sunday drew anywhere near as many persons as similar, earlier protests in Washington.

Organizer Dr. Sidney Peck, said there is no crisis atmosphere to attract protesters.

In a separate demonstration in Congress Monday, seven young antiwar demonstrators were dragged out of the House gallery after yelling "Stop the War!" They were booked on charges of disrupting Congress.

A Time For Talking

Recent proposals by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States makes a lot of sense in view of the fact government is costing the American taxpayer $14 billion more than the total he spends for food, shelter, clothing, and new cars. It's really scary, they say, that the cost of government increased by 67 per cent from 1958 to 1971. And their chief proposal is that the President and Congress be put on a strict diet.

"No committee today," the statement reads, "is responsible for the total budget picture. The Federal budget is a thing of bits and pieces. Each committee has a favorite piece and tries to squeeze it in somehow. No committee evaluates the budget in terms of balancing tax receipts and expenditures. Excess costs are simply added to the national debt. A total review by one committee, to be made public, could help balance the budget."

In addition, they suggest a projection on all spending over a longer period so that both Congress and the taxpayer will have means of measuring new and continuing programs. The costs of new programs initiated during the '60's increased 300 per cent during the first five years. If the taxpayer knows the future costs, he will think twice about the true worth of a program.

They also call for a reevaluation of all government programs every three years to determine their worth. As it stands now, almost $175 billion of the proposed $247 billion budget for fiscal 1973 will be spent automatically — about $2,650 per family.

Further than this, they propose that all new government programs be "pilot" tested before full scale funding is provided. If it works, then and only then should Congress put it into nationwide operation. They point out that many projects which look good on paper fails to solve the problems they have been designed to cover. They quote Abraham Ribicoff as urging that the proposed Family Assistance Plan be pilot tested by saying, "We have 168 programs at a cost of $31 billion to alleviate poverty, and we've got more poverty in this country than we had last year."

The Chamber also points out that there are over 800 trust funds which do not come under the annual appropriations review. Substantial changes in priority may be advisable as times change.

The statement closes with the following summation: "Until the American public insists on steps like these, election results will be meaningless. What's needed is millions of Americans talking to their friends, neighbors, colleagues and public officials about ways and means to bring spending under control."

One would find it hard to fault the proposals, so maybe the Chamber is right—it's time to start talking.

Lament For My Country

By Jim Bishop

My country! 'tis of thee
The dust is down. The air has cleared.
The battling bantam masks his pain under a slow wink. A bullet stopped his headlong rush. Now, for the first time, he hears the slow tick of his watch. His brown eyes study ceilings and he dreams the impossible.

I do not weep for George Corley Wallace. I weep for us. We are haters. When we cannot beat a man fairly, we ambush him. A bullet emits a short bark followed by a long silence. It was fitting that he came out into the crowd smiling, trusting, both hands out like a good neighbor.

Sometimes I think I did not mature until November 22nd, 1963, when John Fitzgerald Kennedy had one-third of his head blown off. Either I matured that day, or aged suddenly. It doesn't matter. I saw America as a violent country.

Wallace was not my man. He was bellicose. In many areas of political knowledge, he was ignorant. He shouted eternally about "us" and "them" without ever defining who. "Send them a message," he roared, but he said not what or to whom. Nor even why.

Sweet land of liberty

He came up from the red clay and muddy pools of Clio and he rode a fast horse. He had more personal courage than is good for a man to have. He tried a moderate approach on blacks and his horse tripped. George Wallace learned from mistakes. He was never "out-segged" again.

Under the cool dome of the capitol at Montgomery, he was a dark fever. He moved. His fast little feet whisked him across the cool stone once trod in dignity by Jefferson Davis, and he addressed the legislature as though they were retarded schoolboys.

He blocked the university door against Assistant Attorney General Katzenbach to keep Alabama's schools white. When the law told him to step aside, Wallace obeyed the edict with reluctance.

Of thee I sing

His enemy was across the street in Dexter Baptist Church: the jowly gentleman of Job, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Wallace fought him in Montgomery; he fought him in Birmingham; he fought him at Selma. Times were changing. King had all the high cards. Wallace fought for an old tradition.

The governor lost. He was never a good loser and chalk that up in his favor. To beat Wallace, you had to flatten him and stand on his chest. When he could not succeed himself he was not above nominating a sick wife who knew less than he about the changing times, the noble lie that "All men are created equal..."

When she died, Wallace placed a marble bust of his wife in the rotunda of the capitol. She had spent her strength as an attractive, admirable fiction of a governor while George scrambled to higher places. If his party would not acknowledge him, he would not acknowledge his party.

He stooped to the level of spoiler. He cast himself as a "third choice" for President knowing that he was helping Richard Nixon. And now he was doing it within the Democratic party, gathering unto his broad chest all those millions of people who are "fed up."

Land where my fathers died

He said "bussin'." He ducked grapefruit and oranges and said, "Those are your people who believe in free speech." He was loved. He was hated. He was a hardy manipulator who shucked his jacket and rolled his sleeves up. He told the poor, the unwashed, the unthinking the things they wanted to hear. Wallace had 2,000,000 primary votes in his pocket.

From every mountain side

The bantam battler kept his options open. He would go to Miami Beach as a strong contender for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States. They could accept him and he would remain a Democrat. If they didn't he would defeat them again as a third party candidate. Either way, he was big trouble.

George Wallace was shot by a cypher. His guts were on hot macadam. He was a Huey Long, a Theodore Bilbo, a Tom Heflin. He was down and for a time, done. The press which despised him wept. The President sent his physician. Humphrey and McGovern croaked the sad dirge of sympathy.

It wasn't George Wallace who was shot. It wasn't a politician who is part evil, part noble. The cornerstone of this republic fell to the pavement and the edifice trembles.

confided to him that she would never be able to banish the thought from her mind that she had killed the only child she would ever conceive.

Statistics prove that 80 per cent of all abortions are due to none of the above causes. In simple terms too many women in our present society just do not want the commitment a child brings. They have time for everything but Motherhood and there are enough unscrupulous doctors and politicians in the land to aid and abet them, with money a dominant factor.

In many areas of the world, wild animals in danger of becoming extinct through man's ruthlessness, are being protected by law. In the name of humanity shouldn't an unborn human being, pitifully dependent upon its donors, be given the same protection.

Pennsylvania Story

Lottery Musings

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG —Now that Pennsylvania's lottery is two months plus old, it may be in order to pause and reflect on this unique enterprise.

Most state officials concerned with the small, green coupon seem pleased with its leap out of the starting gate.

Pennsylvanians, in general, apparently are satisfied since sales remain at a relatively high level.

All has not been sweetness and light, of course, as can be expected with any new venture, particularly one sanctioned by the State of such a large magnitude.

There have been some grumblings in legislative halls over alleged political favoritism in the licensing of sales agents (denied by the State Department of Revenue in whose confines the lottery operation is situated).

Then there was the squabble between Revenue Secretary Kane and fellow Shapp cabinet member, Frank C. Hilton, Secretary of the State Department of Property and Supplies. Mr. Hilton, very big in veterans' circles, was fearful that vet organizations which straddle this vast State would not be licensed to sell chances because of alleged discrimination.

This lottery "brush fire" was quickly quelled at a breakfast meeting which included their boss, Governor Shapp.

Of recent, there has been some flak raised over the traveling "side show" which ballyhoos each weekly drawing what with all the colored gaudies, singing and scantily clad femmes dancing about the portable stage.

However, a little "razzle-dazzle" would seem to do no harm if it will help beat the drums on lottery sales via interest attached to the drawings. If the Legislature in its wisdom decreed a lottery in the first place, it would seem proper to go first class if this will help sales.

Interestingly, much of any sales lag may be attributed not to any necessary reluctance to fork over 50 cents —but, rather, to just plain forgetfulness to fork over the half-buck!

On The Right

McGovern On Defense

By William F. Buckley, Jr.

On the eve of the expected announcement of an agreement between the governments of the United States and of the Soviet Union respecting controlled disarmament, I turn to the defense theories of Senator George McGovern, the emotional front-runner in the Democratic race. I am indebted to the spread on "The Economics of George McGovern" (available at no charge from Box 182, Murray Hill Station, New York, 10016) and in particular to the essay by Mr. William Schneider, a Ph.D. formerly associated with the Hudson Institute.

Senator McGovern talks grandly about cutting the defense budget by a breathtaking 30 billion dollars. That would appear to be a splendid idea, inasmuch as no American taxpayer benefits tangibly from defense expenditures since we cannot eat bullets, or borrow on our equity in atom bombs. But the tactical consequences aside the strategic implications of that reduction are important to look at.

It would mean forever cancelling all weapons or weapons plans whose purpose is primarily defensive in nature, or which prospectively aim at the offensive capability of the enemy. This would be a giant step backwards, into the strategy of what the boys call "Mutual Assured Destruction," MAD for short. MAD is the primitive intuition that if we maintain enough nuclear warheads to visit insupportable damage upon the enemy's population the enemy won't bother us. Thus Senator McGovern argues that as things stand we have "the guaranteed capability to deliver 200 one-megaton equivalents on separate targets in both the Soviet Union and China."

There are two difficulties with MAD, one moral, the other practical.

The first is that the ransoming of tens of millions of human lives is something a state is entitled to do when there is no alternative. Even then it is not clear, as the situation works out that the moral mandate is unambiguous. If on the apocalyptic day the Soviet Union were to proceed with its devastating nuclear strike, an American president would need instantly to assimilate the data: a) our deterrent strategy has not worked; therefore b) the dispatching of our own nuclear armada is an act not of deterrence but of vengeance. To take 50 million lives without achieving the practical purpose of national survival is morally risqué.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON —Lieutenant William Calley was suffering from mental disorders, in the opinion of two eminent psychologists, at the time he led his troops on a shooting spree through the tragic village of My Lai.

A military court has singled him out as the chief culprit in the May Lai massacre. He was convicted specifically of murdering 22 civilians.

Yet the two psychologists, working independently, came up with remarkably similar findings that Calley was mentally and emotionally unstable —and possibly even deranged — during the My Lai slaughter.

Confronted with these findings, dignified old George Latimer, the former military appeals judge who was both father figure and chief counsel for Calley considered an insanity defense.

In its harshest terms, the question was: would Calley want to risk being branded as a murderer or madman? Both the lieutenant and Latimer decided irrevocably against claiming insanity.

The psychological tests, conducted by Dr. Eugene Stammeyer of Washington, D.C. and Dr. Arthur Weider of New York City, were locked away and never presented as evidence to the military jury. We have now obtained copies of these suppressed documents, which shed new insights into Calley's condition on March 16, 1968 —the day dozens of innocent men, women and children were gunned down by American troops at My Lai.

Both psychologists spent many hours secretly testing Calley. Dr. Weider, senior supervising psychologist at Roosevelt hospital and a life fellow of the American Orthopsychiatric Association, wrote the sharpest opinion.

He gave Calley a battery of tests, including an experimental one under marijuana, in September 1970.

WAS CALLEY PSYCHOTIC?

These "reflect the psychopathology of a very serious personality and mental disorder which has the tendency to become full blown and uncontrollable under such (circumstances) as may have existed at the My Lai atrocities," wrote Weider.

"The possibility of a psychotic or pre-psychotic condition must be considered... This patient's test results are suggestive of a serious psychotic condition."

Some of Calley's responses, such as a denial of indulgence in any "unusual sex practices" and his feeling "someone has been trying to influence my mind," may require "further investigation by the clinician," added Weider.

Dr. Stammeyer, a criminal psychology expert at St. Elisabeths hospital and lecturer at Catholic University, agreed that Calley had "a potential for fragmentation of mental processes and anxiety attacks of near panic proportions when under limited stress."

"The picture of an overinhibited personality structure fraught with internal conflict between impulses and repressive forces is sharply etched. Paranoid trends could easily be aroused by stress."

Although Stammeyer stressed it would be difficult to describe Calley's exact condition on the day of the massacre, the distinguished criminal psychologist said: "It is improbable that Lieutenant Calley was able to maintain... objective, rational control being surrounded with horror, cruelty and violent death."

Calley's "repressive defense" may well have been "overwhelmed, releasing buried affects precipitating an emotional storm of rage, resentment, scorn and hostile aggression."

CALLEY'S CHILDHOOD

Stammeyer traced Calley's instability back to his earliest childhood: "He recalls being enuretic regularly until the age of five and continuing to periodically 'wet his pants' through the second grade, suggesting a rooting of emotional conflicts in early childhood."

His relationship with his father was "distant." Although he was closer to his mother he found her "an unusually ambitious, driving woman, relatively lacking in emotional warmth..."

"Lieutenant Calley failed the seventh grade," wrote Stammeyer. In view of the boy's native intelligence, this "suggests a rather profound sense of alienation and estrangement," the doctor said.

As Calley matured, he recalled doing well in military school, but he "flunked out" of Palm Beach Junior College (Florida) at the end of his first year. Then he drifted from railroad work to retail clerk to "acquiring a private investigator's license."

"Apparently he always felt his influence and productivity to be small and so found little cause for pride, inner security or self esteem in his independence."

During the court martial proceedings, testimony was admitted from Dr. Wilbur Hamman, another St. Elisabeths psychiatrist, that Calley could not premeditate the murder.

Another defense psychiatrist, Dr. Albert LaVerne of New York City, strongly indicated Calley had a serious disorder. LaVerne's testimony was cut off after he was charged with misusing some of his material, but the presiding judge later wrote LaVerne an exculpatory letter.

Government psychiatrists meanwhile, had found Calley "normal." This raises questions whether the government gives adequate psychological tests and why the Army placed a man of Calley's caliber in command of combat troops.

Footnote: Latimer, reached in Salt Lake City told us: "Counsel and defendant were in agreement on not raising legal insanity as an issue. The issue was whether the horrors of combat were such as to impair in a transitory way a person's capacity to premeditate or have a specific intent to kill."

'OK, real cool now—dignified, all-business, but cordial...'

The Readers Speak

Dear Sir:

I would like to comment on two letters which appeared in your paper on May 19 concerning the "Pro Life" advertising as well as Mr. Bonavita's letter two days earlier. I feel qualified to comment on this since I am one of two people basically instrumental in their design.

I have read where the ads were disgusting; should not be shown in the paper, because it sickens a mother since her children might see them; or as Mr. Bonavita suggests, that they were an emotional, hysterical attempt to sway public opinion not on the basis of facts, but on the basis of a gut reaction that has no place in the debate on abortion.

It is quite obvious to me that these people would rather adopt the "candy man" philosophy and live in Camelot, then to accept the facts as they really are. I agree that the pictures were disgusting, but when is the picture of a murdered baby pretty? Those supporting abortion would have you believe that what is aborted is just an indistinguishable glob. I believe the pictures we used to advertise the Forum clearly point out the contrary, and the slides shown at the Forum by Sister Marie Claire of the development of the fetus and those of the results of the four methods of abortion further solidify the fact that we are talking of human life. It is too bad Mr. Bonavita does not accept these as facts. I would welcome his suggestions for future advertising.

Jini Schneck covered many points in her letter which she either wrote before the Forum or she neglected to attend the Forum, because if she did, I doubt that she would take such an ill-informed position on this subject together with making unfounded judgments on people she does not know. Her remarks in her letter indicate to me a philosophy based on the premise that she would like to have her cake and eat it too.

Sincerely,
G.M. Lafferty

Dear Sir:

Much has been written on the Anti-Abortion Issue now pending and having deep feelings regarding this matter, I hope you will allow me the privilege of expression.

I readily concur that the pictures in the newspaper ads were repugnant, but so are the films on Cancer that are shown publicly from time to time to edify the public. The only damage they could do in my opinion would be the effect they might have on very young children, but then young children rarely read newspapers. The possible re-action would be scenes children are exposed to on television.

Personally I can see no justification in abortion in any case, only possibly where

Mini-Mart, Bank Win First Games

Noises were heard from the cellar in the Rec League last evening as the Mini-Mart, 0-2 and in last in the Eastern Division before this game, hung a 4-2 outcome on the National Forge which is dead last in the Western loop with an 0-3 mark.

The Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Bankers, attired in their dapper knit uniforms of gold and black, made their initial appearance of the season a memorable one by out-hitting the Paul Mar Brewers, 15-11, and winning, 13-6.

In the nightcap at the Airport Field, Penn Glade Restaurant obtained its second victory of the young season by knocking over previously undefeated Chimenti's Restaurant, 10-3.

Mini-Mart made its first inning a decisive frame by pushing across three runs. Owen Williams ripped a double to kindle the uprising. Ray Barr added fuel to the flame by singling in the base runner. Paul Yucha drew a walk, putting runners on second and first. Randy Yucha's smash to the shortstop was errored, and both runners came prancing home.

With the score 4-2 in the bottom of the fourth inning, the Forge's pitcher, Cook, made the mistake of grooving an offering down John Castor's "power alley." The pitch was converted into a two-run homer, enough to insure the game from two Forge runs in the ensuing inning.

The Bankers proved to be as flashy with the sticks as in their mode of dress. Tony Ross opened the first with a double. Three singles by Sam Koebley, Chuck McDermott and Jack Karkosky, two sacrifice flies and a single by Skippy Armstrong ended in a mass production of runs—four.

Play was somewhat altered from the first inning, but the result was the same for the victors in frame two — four runs. Koebley and Bob Hoden were accountable for the key hits in the inning. Hoden, incidentally, led the Bankers with a 3-for-3 showing.

Chick Stewart was credited with the mound victory, while Ted Heckathorne was charged with the loss.

Lee Sondericker collected three hits for the losers.

Ahead by three runs on the strength of pitcher Jack Colvin's right arm, Penn Glade widened its lead in the fifth inning by forcing across four additional runs off veteran pitcher Don Mahaffey, who came out of retirement after many, many years of inactivity.

Bill Humbert and Mark English were important factors in Penn Glade's rout. Humbert doubled twice and English contributed an equal number of three-baggers.

With the score 10-4 in the bottom of the fourth inning, the Forge's pitcher, Cook, made the mistake of grooving an offering down John Castor's "power alley." The pitch was converted into a two-run homer, enough to insure the game from two Forge runs in the ensuing inning.

The Bankers proved to be as flashy with the sticks as in their mode of dress. Tony Ross opened the first with a double. Three singles by Sam Koebley,

Receives Portrait

During the Memphis Classic Pro-Am Tourney, Lee Trevino received a portrait of himself from the tourney's committee for being 1972's defending champion. Ironically, Lee won the event again over the weekend. This should pose a problem for the tournament officials in 1973. A portrait is usually given to the defending champ, but what will Lee do with two?

Senate Crime Committee Probes Sammy Davis Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dapper entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. told a House committee today that a night club friendship led him into a business venture with an alleged organized crime figure.

Appearing before the House Select Committee on Crime, which is investigating connections between organized crime and sports, Davis related how he was approached with a proposal to buy stock in a New Jersey horse farm. "They essentially wanted to use my name," Davis said. The singer-dancer-actor said he was introduced to Stewart Siegel by Gatanio ("Tony") Bastola. Davis backed out of the venture before investing any money, he said, after building supplies and horses were purchased in his name without his approval.

According to a letter from Biff Lowry, president of Tattersalls, a Kentucky auction company, Siegel successfully bid on four horses last October for $8,800.

"Mr. Siegel signed the purchase acknowledgements as Stewart Siegel, actor, Sammy Davis Jr. Farms, Lakewood, N.J.," the letter, which was read into the record said.

Lowry wrote that Siegel said he represented Davis, had only one check and intended to buy additional horses but wanted to ship the four he had already purchased back to New Jersey immediately.

"He promised to pay for all purchases at the end of the

Moody Falls On Bad Luck

ATLANTA (AP) He's a chunky, stocky guy; a moon-faced man with a receding hairline and a slightly puzzled, pained expression who walks with complete anonymity through the chattering, excited throngs surrounding the great stars of pro golf.

He's rarely asked for an autograph. Observers no longer even inquire: "Orville Who?"

He's just ignored. He's fallen on tough times, this former United States Open champion, and Orville Moody doesn't know why. He can't explain it even to himself.

"I'm hitting the ball fairly well," he said, "but I just can't score. I'm playing what you call 'scared' golf. Maybe I'm worrying about it too much."

"I just keep throwing away shots, maybe four or five or six a round. You can't do that and compete out here."

Moody scaled golf's greatest height with his stunning, upset victory in the U.S. Open on Houston's tough Champions course in 1969.

He became an instant celebrity, this slow-talking part-Indian with an unconventional approach to the game who abandoned the security of a 14-year career as a U.S. Army sergeant to try the grimly demanding world of professional tournament golf.

He exchanged pleasantries with the President, made a couple of international tours, was a playing partner of show-business celebrities, taped a couple of television commercials.

The demands on his time were many. He played exhibitions when he didn't want to, competed in tournaments when he wanted to go fishing because "I think the people want to see the U.S. Open champion and I think the U.S. Open champion owes that much to the game."

He made countless appearances at military and veterans hospitals.

Pirates Scout At Legion

Joe Frisina, scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, will be at the American Legion hall this Thursday evening at 8:30 to talk with all concerned managers of the Little League, Hot Stove League and American Legion League.

Frisina, at this time, will discuss how managers can notice, exploit and develop talent on their respective teams.

NFL Club Owners Commence Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League club owners began their meetings Monday in closed-door committee sessions, heard from Players' Association Executive Director Ed Garvey, then called an early halt to help honor players and owners.

The committee sessions were expected to produce recommendations for some constitutional and rule changes to be voted on by the full ownership later in the week, including a proposed move to have a tie count one-half game won, one-half game lost.

Also being considered was a rule change that would alter the nature of sudden death so that each team would have at least one opportunity to handle the ball. As things stand now, a team can win a coin flip to gain possession of the ball and kick a field goal for the victory without the opposition ever getting the ball.

Also on the agenda for the meetings, which conclude the work begun at last March's sessions in Honolulu, are selection of a 1974 AFC-NFC Pro Bowl site and renewal of the Chicago All-Star Game contract.

Garvey, the head of the players' association, spoke to the owners as part of a reciprocal plan aimed at establishing lines of communications between the owners and players, involved in several disputes at the moment. John Thompson, executive director of the owners' Management Council, appeared at the players' meetings last March.

There was no official pronouncement on the subject mat-

Chicago Catcher Redeems Himself With Two-Bagger

ARLINGTON (AP) — Chicago catcher Tom Egan gave Texas a pair of runs with a throwing error in the eighth inning, then redeemed himself with a tie-breaking double in the 10th that carried the White Sox to a 7-6 victory over the Rangers Monday night.

Bill Melton opened the 10th with a walk off Paul Lindblad, 2-2, the fourth Texas pitcher, and was sacrificed to second before Egan ripped his game winning hit down the left field line, giving reliever Vicente Romo the victory.

It was also the fourth straight triumph and 10th in 11 games for the leaders of the American League West and snapped the Rangers' winning string at three.

Carlos May, who earlier had driven in four runs with a pair of doubles, drilled a two-out, run-scoring single in the ninth to lift the White Sox into a 6-6 tie.

Chicago had taken a 5-3 lead in the seventh on a bases loaded walk and May's three run double but Texas moved in front 6-5 in the eighth with two of the runs coming when Egan threw away an attempted home-to-first double play ball.

May followed Mike Andrews' first-inning single with a double that put Chicago in front 1-0 but the Rangers tied it in the bottom of the first on Elliott Maddox' single, a sacrifice and Dick Billings' single, then took a 2-1 lead in the fifth on Dave Nelson's run-scoring double.

Notes & Quotes

Rumors have it that the Cleveland Indians are talking with the New York Yankees for a possible deal. The Indians, reportedly, are seeking Roy White and Fritz Peterson; the Yanks, in turn would like the services of Cleveland third baseman Craig Nettles.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox, gripped in a five-game losing streak, got some more bad news Monday with a medical report that veteran slugger Carl Yastrzemski will be lost for at least two more weeks.

Yastrzemski, who suffered torn ligaments in his right knee in a slide into the plate in California two weeks ago, had the cast removed at Santa Maria Hospital.

However, Dr. John McGillicuddy, the Red Sox' orthopedic surgeon, said that Yastrzemski will be sidelined at least another couple of weeks.

McGillicuddy said that the 32-year-old left-fielder must walk with his leg stiff, avoiding any twisting motion or else "he'll know it's still loose in there."

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Joachim, Penn State's standout second string quarterback, has told head coach Joe Paterno he has decided to transfer to another university. Paterno said last night that Joachim had told him about his intentions.

"I told him to sit tight until we had a chance to talk about it," Paterno said.

The 215-pound Joachim was Pennsylvania's top scholastic football player while at Haverford High three years ago. He was sought by almost every big-name college in the country. The 6-foot 3 Joachim was All-State after setting numerous pass completion records.

Joachim finally decided to go to Penn State but has been unable to make it as first string quarterback.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three unearned runs without a hit in the eighth inning lifted the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-2 exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates at RFK Stadium Monday night.

The game, witnessed by a crowd of 38,445, was the first of two scheduled for the nation's capital, left without a major league team when the Washington Senators moved to Texas following the 1971 season.

With the score tied at 2-2, shortstop Gene Alley bobbled Merv Rettenmund's grounder for an error. Following a pass ball, Pittsburgh pitcher Dave Blair filled the bases with two walks. Baltimore's Paul Blair fled to Gene Clines, whose weak throw enabled Rettenmund to score the tie-breaker. Two more runs scored on the inning's second pass ball by catcher Milt May and another sacrifice fly.

Willie Stargell slammed a home run with one aboard in the first to account for the Pirates' two runs.

ATLANTA (AP) — Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion was named head coach Monday of Atlanta's franchise in the National Hockey League.

General Manager Cliff Fletcher did not disclose contract terms.

Geoffrion, 41, scored 393 goals during his 16 seasons with the Montreal Canadiens and the New York Rangers.

CHICAGO (AP) — The crippled Chicago Cubs had a much-needed day off Monday to patch up for a three-game invasion by the sizzling New York Mets starting Tuesday.

The busiest man in the Cub camp was Dr. Jacob Suker, the club physician, as he examined ailing second baseman Glenn Beckert, shortstop Don Kessinger and pitcher Milt Pappas.

Despite Beckert's painful right thumb, fractured last fall, and Kessinger's pulled stomach muscle, both may be able to face the Mets, who are riding an 11-game winning streak.

Pappas, like Beckert receiving a corsetone shot, may be able to try his tender pitching right elbow in a start against the Mets Wednesday.

DENVER (AP) — Mike Mihalas, a 29-year-old former William and Mary College athlete, was found shot to death on a Denver street Sunday. Detectives said his wallet was empty and robbery was considered a possible motive.

Mihalas was shot once in the chest, apparently by a small-caliber weapon, police reported. A passerby found the body lying on a sidewalk.

Mihalas was a starting guard on William and Mary's football team in his senior year in 1966.

Denny Morell and Jim Olson led A & B to the 14-2 win over Warren Drug as they combined to throw a no-hitter. Morell had a homer while Olson slammed a double and a triple.

Brendan Daley ripped a grand slam home run to add to A & B's assault.

What You Can Earn Tax-Free This Summer

By Sylvia Porter

If you are a high school or college student lucky enough to have found a summer job and you are now getting set to start earning money in your own name, heed this vitally valuable bit of income tax news to you:

You can earn up to $2,050 in 1972 without paying one penny in Federal income taxes, the highest total of tax-exempt income you've been permitted to earn in modern times.

If you are the parent of this student working at a summer job, heed this item of valuable tax news to you:

You still can claim your son or daughter as a dependent and get a new high of $750 exemption for him or her — IF you qualify under the clearly defined rules for dependency deductions.

Despite the continually sluggish employment picture for youngsters, millions of students in every city, town and hamlet will be working at jobs this summer earning tens of millions of dollars in wages and salaries. Moreover, while the unemployment rate for teenagers is up, the pay level has continued rising for those employed.

Thus, it is more important than ever that both of you — student and parent — are prepared to take full advantage of all the tax breaks you can get.

AS A STUDENT HOLDING A SUMMER JOB:

+You can claim your own personal exemption of $750, up from $675 in 1971.

+You also can claim a flat generous low income allowance of $1,300.

+Add the two and you see that you can earn up to $2,050 tax-exempt this summer (or throughout 1972).

+You do not need to file an income tax return if your earnings come out to just under $2,050 and you are single.

+If you hit $2,050 or go above that level, you must file a return and use the tax tables to figure out your tax. At $2,050 estimates Martin Holbrook of the privately circulated Executives Tax Report, you'll owe about $3 in tax.

+You can avoid having any income tax withheld, Holbrook emphasizes, if you had no tax liability for 1971 and you expect none for 1972 — simply by filling out Form W-4E, 1972 Withholding Exemption Certificate, and giving it to your employer.

+But, of course, if taxes are withheld on earnings up to $2,050, you must file a return to get a refund. Keep your earnings and withholding tax records. Make sure your employer knows where to mail your W-2 statement to you showing your 1972 earnings so you can attach it to the income tax return you'll file in early 1973. Then, file your income tax return early in 1973 and claim the refund.

AS THE PARENT OF THIS STUDENT:

+Your basic dependency rule is that you can claim your child as a dependent assuming you furnish more than half of his or her support and he or she does not earn a gross income of $750 or more — BUT with the following exceptions:

+The $750 limit does not apply to a child under 19.

+The $750 limit does not apply to a child 19 or over if your child is a full-time student or is pursuing a full-time on-farm training course. This means that during each of five calendar months of the year, your child must be (a) enrolled full-time at an educational institution which maintains a regular faculty and curriculum and has a body of students in attendance or (b) attending a full-time on-farm training course under approved supervision.

+In addition, says the Executives Tax Report, you can even let your child work for you and deduct your child's salary as a business-connected expense "as long as the wages paid your child are reasonable and for personal services actually rendered as a bona fide employee in the conduct of your trade or business or for the production of income."

+If you meet these rules, both of you still get all the other tax breaks I've listed.

And your support includes on top of cash board, clothing, cost of maid service at home, lodging, education, medical and dental care, recreation, transportation, similar necessities.

CHESNEE, S.C. (AP) — For the first time during their 61 years of marriage, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Lancaster talked with each other over the phone. "They never had to do this before because they always have been together," explained their son. The first telephone conversation took place when Lancaster entered a hospital recently.

Price Squeeze Cuts Quest For Reserves

Garbage-Produced Methane May Ease Gas Shortage

By Bob Rogge

Methane Gas Obtainable

"Natural gas, which is usually nearly pure methane, is a very clean fuel. The federal government has adapted some of its fleets of vehicles on the West Coast to burn natural gas with a great reduction in pollution. It is also estimated that the engine life of those vehicles will be doubled."

The above is from a New York Times article titled "What To Do With Waste" that appeared on April 2, 1972. The following paragraph is also from the same source:

"We are told that it is not practicable to burn natural gas in our cars because we don't have enough of it. But we can make methane from garbage. In this country a number of sewage treatment plants do use the methane they generate to run their lights and machinery, but if we adopted a general public policy of making methane from our garbage we might find out that we have enough for a variety of purposes. This may imply that every home connected to a sewer should be equipped with a garbage grinder and our sewage treatment plants modified to make the generation and collection of methane one of their primary functions."

We can assume that the AGA is well aware of the possibilities of producing methane gas from garbage and sewage. However, it seems they are more interested in other possibilities, such as those that will make use of their vast coal field holdings. The NFG in its annual report, states...in this period of insufficient natural gas supply to satisfy the ever-growing demand, the production of equivalent pipeline quality gas from coal looms as the most promising technological long-range solution to the supply problem.

Many of the major oil companies are now engaged in securing oil on, or have bought, important coal-bearing lands in the country with the view in mind of making gas from coal. This is no real solution to the gas shortage problem, however. What happens when the predictable reserves of coal are used up?

Price Hikes Approved

The Federal Power Commission (FPC), chaired by John Nassikas, recently proposed new rules which would allow a widespread round of price increases on natural gas in order to encourage exploration and development of new gas fields, says the Associated Press in a story dated April 7, 1972.

The commission proposes to consider applications for higher rates on new contracts for the sale of natural gas to interstate pipelines that are now permitted under the area-rate ceilings it has established over the past several years, says the AP article.

At the same time, the commission proposes to consider applications for rate increases even on contracts already covered by those area rates if it could be shown that such increases would result in additions to the interstate natural gas supply, the article continued.

The natural gas industry has been arguing for some time that it needs higher prices in order to finance the costly exploration and development of new gas fields, says AP.

Now is the time the gas company legal experts will draft new rate schedules that will undoubtedly reflect that the asked for additions in consumer rates will undoubtedly enhance their (the company's) ways and means of drilling deeper holes for gas. And the consumer will pay the bill, in toto.

In proposing its new policy, says the AP story, the FPC made it clear that the aim was to encourage the flow of new gas supplies into the interstate market. But, as this series pointed out earlier, the FPC chairman has deliberately hidden facts and figures gathered by his own staff in order to publicly accept those data provided by the American Gas Association that represents the gas producing companies.

Which leaves you where, Mr. John Q. Consumer?

It leaves you holding the (gas) bag and if you complain about it, you will still pay the bill.

Large Local Gas Company

The Pennsylvania Gas Company, Warren, is the largest seller of natural gas to home and industry in this area. It is a wholly owned subsidiary of the National Fuel Gas Company (NFG) of New York City. Also owned by NFG are the Iroquois Gas Corporation of Buffalo and the United Natural Gas Company of Oil City. These three gas companies supply gas to an area in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio equal to one and one-half times the size of the State of New Jersey and with a population of 2,362,000. The three gas companies serve a total of 650,522 customers, 614,504 of whom are listed as residential. Commercial customers account for 34,435 and industrial customers number 1,583.

Retail sales of natural gas to residential customers account for 61 per cent of the total gas revenues. Industrial gas revenues produce 24 per cent of the sales and the remaining 15 per cent of gas revenues are generated from sales to commercial users and small gas utilities, says the NFG in its 1971 report.

From that same report we find that residential revenues to the company amounted to $127,640,000 for an average of $207.71 per residential customer. The latter figure is about what you pay for gas each year to heat your home and for cooking.

With a net income of $14,380,161 in 1971 for the

WARREN TIMES-MIRROR AND OBSERVER

WARREN, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 23, 1972

Gas Storage

The demand for natural gas in any area of the country fluctuates with the seasons, and gas companies make it a practice to buy gas in the low-demand season (summer) and store it for winter use. In the area served by the three area gas companies there are 30 underground gas storage areas with a capacity in excess of 100 billion cubic feet. These storage areas are not, as is popularly supposed, holes in the ground. Primarily, they consist of areas of sand structures at various depths that once produced gas. These sands, although highly compacted by ground pressure, are nevertheless very porous and the gas is pumped into these natural reservoirs and stored under pressure.

One of the major underground gas storage areas operated by Pennsylvania Gas Company, Warren, is located in the southeast corner of Warren County and extends into the southwestern part of McKean County.

Drilling Operations

The Pennsylvania Gas Company, said Ralph E. Grimm, president, has entered into contract drilling arrangements with Amoco Production Company. Some two million acres of land in western New York and northcentral Pennsylvania have been put together for this development program and National Fuel has an option to purchase substantial amounts of any gas developed from this program. There are other companies and other corporations involved in this exploration program as well.

According to a recent Pennsylvania geological survey publication, only 17 per cent of the potential natural gas reserves in the Appalachian basin have been tested, leaving 83 per cent remaining to be explored and evaluated.

And therein lies the crux of the entire gas supply situation, according to the gas companies. Federally-controlled well head prices for natural gas are too low to permit the continued and ever more expensive drilling and exploration programs called for if the nation's gas supply is to be maintained. Well head price is the set price per cubic foot of natural gas at the well head. This price should cover exploration and drilling. Gas company officials say it does not. They are asking for an increase in well head prices as well as increases in consumer rates to cover these, and additional costs of getting the gas to your home or business.

Liquidified Natural Gas

Failing a sufficient source of revenue from these two factors, the gas companies are actively exploring the possibilities of importing liquidified natural gas from such foreign countries as Libya, Algeria, Nigeria, Venezuela and other gas-producing areas.

Gas is liquidified by cooling it to 260 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. In its liquid state, the gas occupies only 1/600th the volume of natural gas. Already a dozen specially designed tankers are in service transporting liquidified natural gas (LNG) and another 15 tankers are planned for construction by 1975.

By 1985 it is estimated the fleet will number 80 tankers.

Next: Industry Expansion And Summation.

Gas Company Service Areas

This map, taken from the AGA annual report for 1971, shows the areas served by the three major area gas companies. The Pennsylvanian Gas Co. area is shaded with dots. The ovals are underground gas storage areas. Also shown are some gas transmission pipelines.

Rep. Johnson, Area Citizens Seek Federal Program Aid

Warren and Forest counties were represented recently at hearings held in Washington, D.C. in regard to several vital programs affecting both areas.

In April Rep. Albert W. Johnson appeared before the Subcommittee on Interior Appropriations to request an increase in the President's budget for $306,900 for use by the U.S. Forest Service at Kinzua Dam and Allegheny Reservoir. The sum was for construction of 75 family units and three toilet buildings at Tracy Campground; master planning for Allegheny Reservoir area and pressurized water system and electric power at Tracy Ridge. This was in addition to $110,000 already in the budget.

Johnson has also requested $150,000 additional funds for the Forest Research Laboratory at Buckalons to provide three additional scientists and personnel. Robert Dilks, also testified before the subcommittee in House and Senate for the U.S. Forest Service appropriation while Dr. David K. Rice, Warren County Commissioner, testified on behalf of the Research Laboratory increase.

Also in April, a group from Warren was in Washington to appear with Johnson before the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to grant the environmental permit for construction of the Route 6 by-pass. The BOR has now referred the matter to the Assistant Secretary for a final decision, which should be coming along soon, according to the congressman.

With $150,000 additional funds for the proposed fish hatchery in the Kinzua Dam area, Johnson and Glade Township Supervisor Gerry Archibald appeared before the Subcommittee on Public Works of the Appropriations Committee and sought a $500,000 appropriation for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to rebuild the important Hemlock Road.

In Forest County at Tionesta, orders are that the community must construct a sewage disposal system. Through Johnson's efforts, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has agreed to make this a joint sewage system. Since there are no funds in the present budget, Johnson and Paul Millin, Tionesta borough solicitor, appeared before the same subcommittee asking for $302,900 for the Army Corps' share in the project.

Millin and Johnson also asked the following to take care of expanded recreation pressure at Tionesta Dam: new water supply system, $72,300; new comfort stations, $94,900 and 73 new camping spurs, $39,900.

Discuss Road

With the funding of an additional $150,000 in the President's budget for the proposed Federal Fish Hatchery at Kinzua Dam, the need to reconstruct Hemlock Road leading to the hatchery site remains. Last week, Rep. Albert W. Johnson, right, and Gerry Archibald, left, chairman of Glade Township supervisors, appeared to request a $500,000 appropriation for the U.S. Corps of Army Engineers to rebuild the road. Paul Millin, center, Tionesta borough solicitor, and Johnson, also sought funds for the Corps in a joint sewage system and expanded facilities at Tionesta Dam.

Lander News

Mrs. Harry Ludwick and Mrs. Marsh entertained at a variety shower for Miss Laura Eastman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Eastman of Ellicottville, N.Y., who will be the bride of Daniel Ludwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ludwick, Salamanca, N.Y. Games were played and prizes awarded. The honor guest received lovely gifts from the 14 guests present from Ellicottville, Warren, Youngsville, Russell and Lander.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lindell attended the commencement at Murray State College in Kentucky when their daughter, Mrs. Jerry (Faye) Rouse received her master's degree. Mrs. Rouse and daughter, Lisa, returned home with them for a two week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Burgett spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Erhke in Lancaster, N.Y. and attended a Mother's Day picnic Sunday.

In Washington

Warren was represented last month at a hearing in Washington, D.C. in a hearing before the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation urging the bureau to grant the environmental permit

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gerber

Dale Gerber, Sally Dates Wed

Sally Ann Dates became the bride of Dale K. Gerber in a double ring ceremony held at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, Pleasant drive, Warren on April 22, 1972.

Louis J. Ralabate, associate minister of the Salamanca Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, performed the afternoon ceremony before a pedestal arrangement of white gladiolas, yellow chrysanthemums and greens.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh E. Dates, 102 Duncan blvd., Warren. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Joseph Hunger, 704 Marna Lane, North Fort Myers, Florida and the late William G. Gerber.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of satin. Her bodice and long sleeves were trimmed with Venice lace, which also edged the floor length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Louis Ralabate, a sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of yellow polyester whipped cream crepe, trimmed with yellow and white flowers which accented the empire waist. Her gown was complemented by a yellow southern belle hat. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and white mums.

William Dates, brother of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Charles Reich Jr., Cambridge Springs; Richard Haupt, Warren; and Larry Nortom, Kane.

The reception was held at the Sheffield Fire Hall. Reception aides were Judy McElhatten, Carol McElhatten, Kristi Haupt, Bonnie Repine and Deborah Smith.

Following a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Canada, the couple is at home in rural Kane.

The bride is a graduate of Warren Area High School and was employed at Try M Finance Company. The bridegroom graduated from Alden High School and is employed by Fred's Contract Cleaning, Olean, N.Y.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by friends in Kane and Warren and fellow workers of the bride at Try M Finance.

Jamestown Hospital Fair Scheduled July 20

July 20 is the date for the 18th Annual Jamestown General Hospital Fair. General Chairman Mrs. Roy Heffer announced today that final plans are shaping up well for one of the summer season's largest benefits.

As always, the Baby Parade starts the day at 10 a.m. with many prizes and a gift for each baby entered in the contest. Pocket ladies and pony rides will be available for the small fry throughout the day.

A chicken barbecue is to be served by Risbergs from 5 to 7 p.m. During the dinner, entertainment will be provided by Dorothy Brooks and a group of talented performers from the Senior Citizens.

In the evening, the Jamestown Municipal Band will give a concert which is always a highlight of the day.

Several thousand people attend the fair each year. All proceeds are used for the betterment of the hospital. Activity in this fair is not limited to members of the Auxiliary. Everyone is welcome to participate.

Anyone wishing to donate time, baked goods, hand made articles, items for Grandma's Attic, have been asked to contact Mrs. R. Henry Sandstrom, president or Mrs. Roy W. Heffer, general chairman of the fair.

Ackley Granger Receives 75 Year Certificate

Hallie G. Holt was awarded a 75-year membership certificate by the Pennsylvania State Grange Master, A. Wayne Readinger, at the recent Seventh Degree Association dinner meeting held in the Diamond Grange Hall in Tiona. Twelve members from Ackley Grange attended this special event.

Women's Activities Chairman, Alice Kiteclinger, announced that Margaret Bullock received first place in Class C division in the state sewing contest held on the Pomona level. This entitles the entry to go to State for judging.

It was voted to have the exterior of the Grange hall painted this summer and to give a contribution for the Miss Russell Pageant.

The charter was draped in memory of Evelyn Wilcox. The program was in keeping with Memorial Day. Mrs. Holt related interesting occasions over the past 75 years all the way from Subordinate Grange to National Grange sessions. She displayed her 25, 50 and 75 year certificates; also, the program she received when she took the Seventh Degree in Pittsburgh in 1923.

Bible School Meeting Set For Wednesday

Deck Tops Sloping Yard

Living on a hill can be a mixed blessing, particularly in a traditional style home. The wide sweeping lawn, so gracious an approach, may be just a slope out back that puts yard activities on a slant — not the best angle for action.

One way to get lawn chairs and picnic table on level ground is to turn the slope into an asset by developing a series of level areas connected by steps.

The number of levels depends on the extent of the grade and the owner's imagination. First step might be an outdoor sitting room, with stairs leading down through a terraced garden to an activity deck below.

Concrete retaining walls and landfill are a common means of holding on to a hill, but they seem a bit cold and staid in a colonial setting. Decks of western wood offer a natural and versatile medium, built on posts over uneven ground without additional fill. Open space below allows for good drainage arrangements, too, often a problem for hill-dwellers.

Two by two-inch Douglas fir over 4 by 4- and double 2 by 4-inch posts creates a more formal look than wide boards, suits the traditional mood especially well when stained to harmonize with house trim.

As a precaution, posts to be set directly in or on concrete or the ground itself should first be treated with a decay-preventing preservative such as pentachlorophenol, either commercially or at home.

Codes in many areas require safety railings around a deck four feet or more off the ground. Their usefulness can be doubled by building-in sections of bench seating or edging the deck with a long planter. Brightening the view with a bank of flowers also ties the upper level to the landscaping theme below.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Occasionally you print a Do-It-Yourself Test. I ran into a good one last week. A friend sent it. I was resentful at first, but now I realize he was trying to tell me something. Please print it.

The "Am I In Trouble" Test

1. Alcohol is an addictive drug. —True Or False
2. As few as two drinks a day can lead to alcoholism. —True or False
3. The attitude of a drinker is as important as the amount he drinks. — True Or False
4. Some people can handle a quart a day and live a normal life. —True Or False
5. Moderate drinking will eventually cause physical damage. —True Or False
6. Most older people should cut back on alcohol. —True Or False
7. Women can't hold their liquor as well as men. —True Or False
8. Vodka and gin do not produce hangovers. —True Or False
9. Drinking on an empty stomach makes you drunker. —True Or False
10. A person who drinks only wine or beer will not become an alcoholic. —True Or False
11. A person who is drunk behaves more like his real self. — True Or False
12. The ideal arrangement for an alcoholic is to set his limit at one or two drinks rather than try for total abstinence. He will then feel as if he is in control of himself and less deprived. —True Or False.

The answers are as follows:

1. True. Alcohol is an addictive drug.
2. True. For some people. But the real question is not how much a person drinks, but how much he depends on it.
3. True. Too many people fail to recognize the importance of their attitude toward drinking. This is what separates the social drinker from the alcoholic. When drinking becomes part of a person's life style he is in trouble.
4. False. Heavy drinkers, no matter how normal they seem, are not normal. Some people can hold a great deal of alcohol and not show it, but they can't fool their internal organs.
5. False. Moderate drinking will probably cause no damage, even over a lifetime. The problem lies in the interpretation of the word "moderate."
6. True. A heavy drinker who is past 35 won't be able to handle alcohol as well over the next 35 years—if he lasts that long.
7. True. Women generally weigh less than men. The less a person weighs, the more quickly his body is affected by alcohol.
8. False. This is a lot of malarky.
9. True. Food cushions the effects of alcohol by slowing down the rate at which it is absorbed by the body.
10. False. See statement in response to Number 8.
11. False. Alcohol releases the inhibitions and exposes the unguarded, primitive man. This does not mean it is his "real" self, but rather his uncivilized, crude self.
12. False. An alcoholic should not have even one drop of alcohol. —Daily Reader

Dear Reader: In my opinion the most valuable part of the test is the last sentence in the response to the third question. It's worth going back to and reading again.

Fascinating Gemini, Changeable As The Wind

Fast-thinking, funny and sometimes fickle, Gemini gals are both perplexing and fascinating. Their astrological sign is a pair of twins, which traditionally represents the combination of good and evil in human nature and gives a hint of the dual nature of the Gemini personality.

If you've been aware of your changeability, it might comfort you to know that everyone expects Geminians, who are born under the planet Mercury, to be chameleons in quality and mercurial in temperament.

Geminis love to argue and can be impossible, but they're so magnetic and charming that they can intrigue the most indifferent of males. Gemini gals are known as having the best figures in town which, combined with their intrinsic flair for fashion, inspire a coterie of admirers. Because you tend to whirl through the busiest days, your patience is tried by hot and humid weather that tends to slow the pace and dampen your spirits.

The Gemini sun sign is known as "mutable air," which means those born under its influence combine their bright intelligence with a penchant for action and activity. Like a thoroughbred's, the Gemini nervous system is a highly-keyed one, so patience may be the virtue you most need to cultivate. You can be irritable and peevish when your independence and freedom are curbed and things don't go as quickly as you've planned.

Geminis can be most expressive when they choose, but they also can be just as indifferent, so there may be times when your detachment complicates your emotional involvements. While Geminis like to flirt, it doesn't mean that they're unfaithful — they're merely seeking the mental stimulation they find in being surrounded by intellectual men.

Those born under Mercury's influence glide gaily through a fascinating life, and bestow both fascination and life on all those who are touched by the charming enigma of Gemini.

We Sell Success

Work faithfully eight hours a day, said Robert Frost, and you may eventually become boss, and work twelve hours a day. (Or you could take the short-cut, and marry the boss' daughter.)

There have been many formulas for success, some very detailed, others simple as "A smile and a shoe shine". Although it's not quite that simple, it helps. Many people will tell you that they notice shoes right away. If they're out of style, or scuffed, or the wrong color for your clothes, it's noticeable at once. Besides it can jeopardize your personality. And that could certainly affect your work. Let us do our part toward making you successful, with a stylish pair of new shoes, properly fitted for your comfort and good health.

This week, "The Mod Squad" at 7:30 p.m. on WKBW features an unusually excellent episode, in which the drug scene dominates this drama of a hunt for a fugitive. Cameron Mitchell stars as a man on the run, a dope pusher who killed one cop and wounded another. Brooke Bundy portrays his stepdaughter, an ex-addict trying to stay clean. Her effort won't be easy, as the police are using her as bait, forcing her to return to the world that nearly destroyed her. The location filming was done in Santa Monica, Cal.

Frightened citizens flee their town leaving Ben Cartwright (Lorne Greene) to protect his prisoner against a notorious gang in "The Real People of Muddy Creek" on Ponderosa" at 7:30 p.m. on WGR, WJAC and WICU. This is a repeat of "Bonanza" seen on Oct. 6, 1968.

Ben and Joe (Michael Landon) jail Luke Harper (Joe Don Baker) and are waiting for a marshal to arrive when Harper kills the Muddy Creek sheriff. Citizens flee when Ben refuses to heed a telegram from Luke's brother threatening their lives and demanding the boy's release.

"The ABC Movie of the Week" will feature an unusual love story entitled "The Astronaut" at 8:30 p.m. on WKBW. Jackie Cooper portrays a space-agency official desperately trying to conceal an astronaut's death on Mars. His plan is to prepare a stand-in who will pose as the astronaut long enough to insure funds from Congress.

Monte Markham plays the imposter, a loser who's looking for a new life. Susan Clark portrays the astronaut's wife. Uninformed of the tragedy, she greets her returning hero... and begins to fall in love all over again.

The first in a series of action dramas from Bob Hope's anthology of the Sixties will be seen on "NBC Action Playhouse," which will be seen weekly at 8:30 p.m. on NBC stations. Tonight George C. Scott and Michael Parks co-star in "A Time For Killing," a drama involving a submarine captain and his crew as they encounter their first Japanese ship after Hiroshima. Peter Marshall is the host.

Capt. McGuire (Scott) reluctant to pursue warfare after news of the bombing of Hiroshima, brings his sub to the surface to get a clear radio report. Minutes later a Japanese plane strafes the deck and a crewman is killed. Despite the indignation of the crew, particularly of the second-in-command, McGuire refuses to fire torpedoes.

The CBS Network (WBEN, WFBG, WSEE) police dramas are as follows: "Hawaii Five-O" 8:30 p.m.: McGarrett is after a airport cargo thief, who is a mastermind of a lot of crimes, among them murder.

"Cannon," 9:30 p.m.: Theodore Bikel stars as a beloved old wine-grower in "Blood on the Vine." The question is why somebody is trying to kill him.

Reading Clinic At Allegheny

The annual summer Reading Improvement Clinic will be held at Allegheny College in Meadville, June 19 through July 21.

The program offers to elementary, junior and senior high school students individualized instruction in corrective, remedial and developmental reading with special emphasis on the improvement of vocabulary, reading rate and comprehension. Instruction is arranged on a one-to-one basis with the actual hours being worked out to the convenience of both students and instructor.

Interested persons may contact the education department by calling 724-3368. The application deadline is June 9.

Opening lead: Five of ♠
An unorthodox play at the opening gun provided the key to South's successful performance in today's six heart contract.

West opened the five of spades and the lone ace appeared in dummy. South pondered at length what to discard from his hand and having no real preference between clubs and diamonds, he finally chose to ruff his good trick in order to retain his minor suit holdings.

The ace of hearts was cashed on which West played the jack and East discarded a spade. West was given his trump trick and now the latter was end played. After some thought, West exited with a diamond. South won the trick with the jack, crossed over to the ace and then back to the king. When the suit divided evenly, declarer's five was established for the discard of a club from dummy and now he had the rest of the tricks.

Had West shifted to a club, the outcome would have been the same—since that suit also divides favorably and declarer's long club becomes established for a diamond discard.

Giving South a ruff and discard leads to the same result, for either a club or a diamond may be discarded from dummy, while declarer ruffs in his hand. If the sluff is a diamond, for example, South goes over to the ace, back to the king and then ruffs away West's queen on the third round. The queen of hearts puts declarer in to cash the jack of diamonds to discard South's losing club. The procedure can be duplicated in clubs if that suit is discarded on West's spade return.

The key to success lay in ruffing the spade opening, for if declarer sluffs either a diamond or a club on North's ace of spades, West can exit—when he is in with the king of hearts—in whichever suit South has discarded his long card. If, for example, declarer sluffs a club at trick one, West gets out with a club and now South must try the diamond finesse. When that fails, West scores the setting trick.

In short, declarer could not spare his long card in either minor—which is why he ruffed his good trick.

How To Keep Well

Medical Browsing

By Dr. T.R. Van Dellen

There are many medical hazards to heroin addiction. The users give themselves repeated injections and tend to be careless about sterilizing the needle or using an antiseptic on the skin. Infections, including abscesses, are common complications. Several addicts using the same syringe and needle may give one another malaria, hepatitis, tetanus, or even syphilis. Death from overdose also occurs, often within 10 years.

An unusual complication was recently reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association. A 22-year-old addict was brought to the Englewood (N.J.) Hospital emergency room after he had swallowed a hypodermic needle. The victim was in the habit of cleaning the needle by placing the blunt end between his lips and blowing out and sucking in. Unfortunately, he sucked in too hard and the needle lodged in the back of his throat. When he tried, and failed, to get it out, he swallowed it.

X-rays revealed that the needle was in the stomach and not in the chest. Abdominal surgery had to be done to retrieve the needle and save his life. The physicians neglected to say whether the incident cured his habit.

Dr. John S. Tamerin, Connecticut psychiatrist, believes that the vigorous anti-smoking campaign has created many "pantry" smokers who sneak cigarettes. Many of these people have also developed feelings of guilt and shame after trying and failing to stop. And the ensuing humiliation has caused many neurotic and psychotic symptoms.

This may be why psychiatrists are reluctant to quit. According to Dr. Tamerin, 42 per cent of psychiatrists still are smoking in contrast to 29 per cent of other medical specialists. Among those questioned, only 39 per cent who smoked had quit in contrast to 56 per cent of the other physicians.

FOOD ALLERGY
B.G. writes: If a person with spastic bowel is allergic to wheat and eggs, will the avoidance of these foods alleviate the colon distress?

REPLY
Yes, provided the bowel is spastic because of allergy rather than emotional upsets. Allergy is not a common cause of abdominal distress in adults. Wheat and eggs are common causes of allergy. They are difficult to avoid unless all foods containing these items, including various mixtures, are eliminated. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on allergy.

GANGLION
W. writes: What is the cause of a ganglion on the wrist?

REPLY
We do not know why these cysts develop next to joints, such as the wrists. It is believed the connective tissue degenerates to produce a sac filled with clear mucus. Injecting cortisone-type hormones into the sac may make it disappear. If not, surgery will be needed. Decades ago, physicians often cured the lesion by breaking the cyst with the family Bible.

A SNEAKY DISEASE
B.B. writes: Why do you call diabetes a sneaky disease?

REPLY
Because diabetes sneaks up on a person (often after gaining weight) and may be present for months or years before it is recognized.

RARE BIRDS
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Rare Darwin's rhea chicks have hatched at the San Diego Zoo. The hatching of the birds was a joint project of the San Diego Zoo and the Brookfield Zoo in Chicago, said Curator Kenton Lint.

The Brookfield Zoo was having no luck in reproduction of the birds, and knowing Lint's record in successful hatching of other rare species, sent its entire flock of nine birds here.

Rheas are related to the ostrich but are smaller, and are native to South America.

Acid Mine Water Fouling State Streams

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania is dumping or allowing to be dumped millions of gallons of acid mine water in some streams for the pollution is a matter of expediency to stave off a potentially bigger ecological problem.

The Department of Environmental Resources says if the water buildup in underground pools is not controlled east of the Susquehanna River it will break out on its own and flood residential areas.

Why couldn't the tainted water be treated before it is diverted to streams. The water volume is so great that it would be virtually impossible to treat a significant amount, the department says.

Abandoned mines created the problem.

One of the priority programs of the department is a study of the underground pool complex of the Wyoming Valley in eastern Pennsylvania in order to produce a water management system for the vast region. The study is expected to be completed in December.

Now, the state is spending $10,000 a month for electricity to pump acid water out of the old Delaware colliery near Wilkes-Barre. The water is channelled through large pipes into Mill Creek, a tributary of the Susquehanna River.

To the southwest, in the Gilberton area, the department is aware of—but is doing nothing about—stream pollution by a private firm involving Mahonoy Creek. Again, it cites the problem of flooding if the pumping is stopped.

In numerous other places—in the hard coal fields of eastern Pennsylvania and in the soft coal fields of western Pennsylvania—the department is aware of other streams being polluted by abandoned mines. In the east, it has drilled huge bore-holes to relieve the water pressure to prevent flooding. The water goes into streams.

And where there are no bore-holes or pumps, there is natural drainage from abandoned mines, much of the problem in western Pennsylvania.

Any publicity outcry concerns the department's doing exactly what it tells coal mine operators they can't do—pollute the water.

Is there real justification for Environmental Resources, policy of "do as I say-not as I do."

Clifford McConnell, Environmental Resources deputy secretary for engineering says it would be a simple matter to back away from the situation by stop drilling boreholes and pumping. "But then it might break out in somebody's basement," he says.

"We can't correct in a couple of hours something that's been going on for 50 years. The public outcry should have come 30 years ago."

McConnell notes that the state inherited the drainage problem from abandoned mines but he doesn't throw this up as an excuse to cloud the issue.

Fifth Grade Boys Eligible For Scouting

As soon as boys complete the fifth grade this spring, they can join a Scout troop, according to Dr. Khlar McDonald, President of the Chief Complanter Council, Boy Scouts of America.

There are 36 Scout troops in the Warren area so there should be one near the boy's home, McDonald said, or boys or parents can get information from the Scout service center, 256 Pennsylvania Ave. West, 723-6700.

McDonald said that most boys want to join a troop to have fun, activities, and companionship but that the Scouting program — which will introduce some improvements next fall — uses several unique methods to reach its objectives.

"Scouting ideals is one of the principal methods of Scouting," McDonald explained, "and the boy is asked to understand and try to live by the Scout Oath and Law. Then, Scouting uses the patrol method so that a boy learns to relate to others by working in a small group with each troop made up of several patrols.

"In Scout advancement, the boy can see his self-improvement when his accomplishments are recognized, and the program offers a chance for a boy to have outdoor experiences to develop his personal fitness. Scouting also makes extensive use of adult male association so that a boy learns about adult qualities by associating with adults," McDonald explained.

"Two other methods of Scouting are leadership development so a boy will understand the role of leadership as he is provided the opportunity to lead and personal growth which helps a boy gain maturity as he plans his own personal growth with guidance," McDonald said.

Third Place Held By State In Syrup Prod.

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania moved into third place among the nation's leading maple syrup producing states in 1972, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Ninety-six-thousand gallons of syrup was produced during the month-long season beginning in late winter, a two per cent jump over 1971 with most of the gain attributed to an increased number of taps.

National production was pegged at 1,100,000 gallons, an increase of 14 per cent over last year which was a poor year for maple syrup production.

Pennsylvania farmers continue to receive the lowest average price for maple syrup, $6.00 per gallon, which is $3.10 less than Maine and $1.10 less than the national average.

The season was marked by a slow start as cold weather in all producing areas slowed the flow of sap. By April 1, a pattern favorable to peak production — cold nights and warm days — quickly offset early losses and produced a better than average harvest.

The quality of 1972 Pennsylvania maple syrup is indicated as above average, with sweetness reported as average to low and color mostly light to medium.

Civil Juries Hear 3 Cases In Past Week

Civil juries heard three cases last week. Other trials scheduled were cancelled with settlements made out of court.

Two cases, one Friday and one Thursday, were declarations of taking in condemnation proceedings for rights of way for Legislative Route 95 and LR 94 in Conewango Township and Warren Borough, by Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

On Friday, the jury awarded Russell and Valjean Lindberg, $26,500 for their property. Florence C. Eberly served as jury foreman. Thursday's award went to Fred and Mazie Greenwald, $42,000 to the Greenwalds and $5,200 recorded for Texaco. Clifford T. Park was jury foreman.

Wednesday's case involved a writ of revival, (to revive a lien through the court), the United States of America vs. Barney Roberti, individually; & Barney Roberti & Sons, and Josephine Roberti individually, and Barney Roberti and Josephine Roberti, husband and wife. The jury found for the plaintiff but no amount was listed. Robert D. Metzgar was foreman.

Radiologists Present Paper

Warren Hospital's other radiologist, is not shown although he and Dr. Lareau prepared the paper entitled "The Horizontal Spleen Pseudo-Syndrome." The paper was one of two presented that did not originate in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.

Computerized Job Bank Dedication Scheduled In Erie

Job Bank, the most advanced method for facilitating employment opportunities and making faster, more effective job placements, will be dedicated officially in Northwest Pennsylvania during a special ceremony in the Erie District Office of the State Employment Service at 1:15 p.m., May 24, according to Andrew J. Donick, manager of the Service's Warren office.

Donick described the job bank as a computerized service which compiles job and training opportunities, processes them electronically and shows them on video-like screens in the local offices of the State Employment Service where it is used by interviewers to make speedy referrals of qualified job applicants to suitable jobs.

Donick said the job bank service begins with the employer who telephones his job order to his local state employment office. There it is edited and transmitted to a centrally located computer hub where it is mixed with other job orders in the area, sorted, sifted and organized in logical job sequence.

Prior to the opening of business the following morning the computerized product is distributed to all local state employment offices in the Northwest Pennsylvania District.

Thus the job bank is a complete, up-to-date listing of all job opportunities, listed with the Employment Service, in the District.

Donick cited several advantages of the job bank to employers and job applicants alike.

The employer will receive fast service and maximum exposure in the entire Northwest Pennsylvania District. Only the number of applicants he requests will be referred — no more.

The job seeker is exposed to all job openings in the area, listed with the State Employment Service. He is not sent to apply for a job already filled as the status of jobs is constantly monitored by central control. The job bank permits the job applicant to visit the State Employment Office nearest his home and apply for a job anywhere in the District, accepting a lower paying job on a temporary basis if he desires, with full confidence he will not be overlooked by the Employment Service when a more desirable job becomes available.

The Northwest Pennsylvania job bank will coordinate the services of the State Employment Service in Bradford, Clarion, Corry, Erie, Meadville, Oil City, Sharon, St. Marys and Warren.

The Warren office of the Employment Service is located at 237 Pennsylvania Ave. West where the job bank is now available to all employers and job applicants in the area.

Sheffield Senior Center To Mark Governor's Day

Sheffield will observe Governor's Day Thursday, May 25, 1972, at a dinner at the Senior Center in the Sheffield Area Medical Center. The occasion will mark receipt of the first monies under a three-year grant from Project Late Start. This project was initiated by Mrs. Muriel Shapp.

Some 150 persons will attend the dinner which will also mark the beginning of registration of Senior Citizens for a Late Start training program.

A representative from Gov. Milton Shapp's office will present a check to the Sheffield Area Senior Center in the amount of $16,000, the first installment on a grant amounting to $65,000 a year. The funds will be used to pay a fulltime executive director and secretary and to pay the operating costs of the center located on the lower level of the medical center.

It was announced last month that Geoffrey Howard, formerly with the Warren Senior Center, would become director at Sheffield.

The dinner will be prepared by the Progressive Women's Club and will be served by the Sheffield Rotary Club. Guests will include the county commissioners and Guido DiLoretto, specialist for the aging, Meadville.

Father John Carter and a group of area residents have been involved in intensive efforts for the past six months to get the Senior Center certified for these federal funds. The lower level of the medical center was designed with the Senior Citizen in mind.

Certification of the Center for federal funds under Project Late Start is the first to be announced outside the Harrisburg area. Mrs. Shapp established the first Late Start training center at the Governor's Mansion. The funds are made available under the Older Americans Act, a federal program of aid to the states.

Senior Citizens registering for the program will be trained to accept responsibility for operating the center to be used by their peer group.

Minor Injuries Suffered When Cycle Flips

An Erie man and his wife suffered minor injuries in a motorcycle accident at 4:30 p.m. Sunday on Route 6, two miles east of Youngsville.

State police trooper Edward Shaffer said the cycle operated by Thomas John Onesky, 23, 122 W. 2nd St., Erie, was traveling east when the throttle stuck causing the vehicle to go onto the berm and upset.

Onesky and his wife, Brenda, were treated and released at Warren General Hospital for cuts and abrasions suffered in the mishap. Damage was listed at $600.

Pool Sharks To Ante Up $200,000 For Game Pot

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—$200,000 for shooting pool? It's the purse for a showdown match between Willie Mosconi and Minnesota Fats temporarily scratched Monday after they traded long distance insults of "phony," "liar" and "fraud."

The challenge—each to ante up $100,000 for the pot with winner take all—was made by the 58-year-old Mosconi, who claims a ton of pool and billiards records while he was champion two decades ago.

"Mosconi is the biggest liar in the world," reports L. Rudolph "Minnesota Fats" Wanderone of Elksville, Ill., denying he ever received any invitation to play four nights in a downtown hotel.

Mark Vinson, handing arrangements, says he could pack the ballroom with 1,800 every night, paying $10 and $25.

"Fats said he'd play anybody for the cash, the cash, the cash, so where is he?" Vinson asks.

"He chickened out," answers Mosconi. "He is a phony."

Wanderone, denying he's ducking the match, says Mosconi knows "I'm playing in a tournament this week in Johnson City, Ill., the pool capital of the world." Then he adds:

"Tell Mosconi if he wants to, he can bring $100,000 to Johnson City and I'll play him there for all of it. And tell him I've got the money."

"He's full of baloney," Mosconi replies. "He is the hoax of the century. He is a complete fraud. I have the money, and I'll be waiting for him here."

"Mosconi was world champion for 15 years before he was forced to quit in 1960 because of a stroke," Vinson says. "He still shoots pool like he used to. He has the highest run record, 526 straight balls. The next best is 365, and Mosconi did that."

"Wanderone has no records, and has never done anything."

There is only one known meeting between the two colorful pool shooters, late in the 1950s, in a little South Philadelphia hall.

"I beat him five games in a row at $50 a game and had to lend him train fare back to New York," brags Mosconi.

From Minnesota Fats—"He plays in exhibitions for $50, I get $5,000."

Shapp Inaugural Fund Audit Shows Discrepancies

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — An audit of Gov. Milton J. Shapp's inaugural funds will show that free tickets for receptions, unpaid hotel bills and smaller-than-announced sales of special medallions were responsible for "missing" monies, sources said Monday.

A statement on the still-uncompleted audit will be presented Thursday night, when the Democratic State Committee meets to elect a new party chairman.

The accounting was ordered last January by party chairman John N. Scales, after news reports said $250,000 in inaugural funds were unaccounted for. Scales denied any wrongdoing and angrily accused Gov. Shapp of leaking the story to embarrass him.

At the time, the governor was trying to oust Scales as chairman and gain control over party fund-raising.

Speaking at a bitter party meeting four months ago, Scales said the discrepancies were the fault of Shapp supporters who ran the January 1971, inaugural.

Scales said then the inaugural committee gave away free tickets to receptions, booked hotel rooms that never were paid for, and sold only small numbers of $500 silver and $1,000 gold medallions created for the event.

These factors created the impression money was missing when it actually was never collected, Scales told the assembled Democrats.

The audit, performed by Arthur Young and Co., Pittsburgh, reportedly will confirm Scales' comments of four months ago.

It never has been revealed just how much money inaugural events did take in.

While Shapp's efforts to oust Scales last January failed — when the party head reversed his decision to resign, the governor did gain control of Democratic fund-raising.

During the recent primary campaign, Shapp formed a new organization, "Campaign '72," which raised money for presidential aspirant Edmund Muskie and other candidates.

At Thursday night's meeting, Scales, now a candidate for the state Senate, will step down. Dennis E. Thiemeann, Gov. Shapp's special assistant for patronage, is one of the candidates for his job.

His chief opponent is Rep. Harry A. Englehart Jr., D-Cambria, state House majority caucus chairman.

AAA Poster Contest Won 8-Year-Old

Eight-year-old Mary Lewis, a third grade student at Columbus Elementary School, won a merit citation in the American Automobile Association's annual Traffic Safety Poster Contest.

According to Ed Johnsen, general manager of the Warren County Motor Club, Mary is the first contestant to ever place in the nation-wide poster competition.

The annual contest drew 37,000 entries this year. Grand prize awards of $500 went to an Indianapolis, Indiana fifth-grader in the elementary division and a Buffalo, N.Y. senior in the secondary division.

Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lewis of RD1, Columbus, is in Miss Florence Colegrove's class at Columbus Elementary School.

The original name of the bass was barse, which is Old English meaning bristly or spiny.

Fumes Fell Workers At Erie Plastic Plant

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Nearly 90 employees at a North American Rockwell Corp. plastics plant were overcome or sickened by toxic fumes here Monday, fire officials said.

Thirty-three were taken to a nearby hospital, where aides said 25 were admitted in "fairly good" condition. More than 50 others were given oxygen at the plant site.

The plastics plant complex, Reinforced Plastics Products Co., a Rockwell subsidiary, was partly closed while attempts were made to determine the source of the fumes.

George Dubach, administrator of the Ashtabula General Hospital, said the workers were overcome by "some kind of

Penn-Central Board Approves New Plan To Refinance With Swiss-Held Notes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn Central Co., parent firm of America's biggest railroad now in a bankruptcy reorganization, announced Monday its board had approved a refinancing plan for approximately $63 million in Swiss-held notes.

The plan, which would extend maturity of the notes for 14 years, must be approved by the shareholders — at an annual meeting already delayed more than a year because of the hangup in negotiations — and by the noteholders.

No date for the meeting has yet been set.

The railroad, which started its bankruptcy action in U.S. District Court in June, 1970, is the principal asset of the holding company. It is being run by four trustees appointed by the court.

President Archibald DeB. Johnson said the new refinancing plan replaces one which stockholders successfully set aside last November in court action.

It provides for the exchange by the company of the presently outstanding notes for the new 14-year notes. The old notes, which became due and payable at the beginning of 1971 but which have been extended during the negotiations for refinancing, were issued by a Penn Central finance subsidiary and guaranteed by the company.

Penn Central, in a statement, said "the new notes would bear simple interest at 7½ per cent, would mature in 1986, would pay interest for the first four years only to the extend of Penn Central Co. earnings, would be callable at any time at par plus accrued interest, and would have a mandatory sinking fund starting in 1981."

The notes are to be secured by 35 per cent of the common stock of Penn Central Transportation Co., which operates the railroad. This collateral is to be released when at least 90 per cent of the notes are repurchased or retired by the company.

Bowing to demands by dissident stockholders, the proposed plan provides that Penn central may offer to repurchase the notes should other sources of financing become available.

Another feature of the plan, the statement said, would be the issuance of warrants to the noteholders, which can be used within a year, to buy 10 per cent of the company's common stock outstanding at a price of $5.50 per share. Penn Central stock sold Monday at $4.25 a share.

The warrants could be exercised by either purchasing shares with cash or surrendering an equivalent amount of the new 14-year notes," the statement said.

Meanwhile, Johnson emphasized his board intended "to exert every effort to assert the rights of our shareholders to their rightful share of the assets" of the company during the current railroad reorganization.

Johnson reiterated his "vigorous opposition" to the sale of the valuable New York City real estate owned by the railroad for which bids totalling more than $165 million were made last October in a sealed auction.

And he pointed out that the company's lawyers had "successfully prevented the sale of shares of Madison Square Garden Corp."

Johnson said Penn Central's board, at the appropriate time, would submit an alternative reorganization plan to the federal court that will provide for the interests of the 140,000 common shareholders.

Chautauqua County Auto Deaths Total 15

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Chautauqua County recorded its 14th and 15th fatalities over the weekend as result of two motor vehicle accidents.

James C. Donelson Jr., 23, of RD 1, Ashville, was found dead in the burned wreckage of his car at 7 a.m. Sunday, one and a half miles north of Panama on the Panama-Stedman rd. Coroner Thomas J. Costanzo, Jamestown, issued a certificate of accidental death due to injuries received in the accident.

Police said the Donelson auto swerved off the roadway, went into a ditch, hit a utility pole, turned over and ignited.

The death of Leonard F. Houghton, 53, of Mayville, was investigated by Coroner Ralph J. Wallace, Westfield, who issued a certificate of accidental death due to a compound skull fracture.

Police said Houghton was killed when he was struck by a tractor-trailer as he was walking along the side of Route 17 near Hartfield at about 10:45 p.m. Saturday.

Driver of the truck, Larry K. Ford, 29, of San Antonio, Texas, said Houghton stepped out in front of his truck and he was unable to avoid striking him.
